The Trade and Development Board,

Recalling Conference resolutions 96 (IV) of 31 May 1976, 131 (V) of 3 June 1979, 159 (VI) of 2 July 1983, the Final Act of UNCTAD VII and Board resolution 286 (XXVIII) of 6 April 1984,

3. Reiterates the need to observe the agreement reflected in paragraph 105 (17) of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII, which states that the observance of multilaterally agreed commitments on trade in goods should not be made conditional on receiving concessions in other areas;

4. Reiterates the need to take expeditious and concrete structural adjustment actions favourable, in particular, to the widening of markets for exports of products in which the developing countries have or may develop comparative advantage;

5. Governments should consider, as part of their fight against protectionism, as appropriate, concrete actions for the establishment of transparent mechanisms at the national level as indicated in paragraph 105 (4) of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII;

6. Decides to consider at a future session of the Board the implications of bilateral arrangements and regional economic integration, especially those which have major impact on global trade, in particular on the trade and development of developing countries;

7. Requests the UNCTAD secretariat to carry out a study of the costs and consequences of non-tariff measures, in particular those which adversely affect exports of developing countries;

368 (XXXV). Trade relations among countries having different economic and social systems and all trade flows resulting therefrom[5]

The Trade and Development Board,

Recalling the relevant provisions of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII pertinent to inter-systems trade, as well as other relevant Conference resolutions, Board decision 356 (XXXIV) of 10 May 1988 and General Assembly resolution 43/188 of 20 December 1988,

Confirming the agreement reached at the second part of the thirty-fourth session of the Trade and Development Board on the feasibility of elaborating a programme for further promotion of trade and economic co-operation among countries having different systems, in particular East-South trade, and recalling the relevant elements of the inputs for the elaboration of the programme, including the informal text annexed to Conference decision 145 (VI) of 2 July 1983, document TD/B/1104/Rev.1,[6] annexes I and II of Board decision 356 (XXXIV), as well as the annex to the present decision,

Emphasizing the potential for increased inter-systems trade,

Decides to adopt the following:

Consultations of the Secretary-General of UNCTAD

1. The consultations of the Secretary-General of UNCTAD, as referred to in paragraph 105 (27) of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII and in paragraph 3 of Board decision 356 (XXXIV), should be carried out as soon as possible and gain momentum.

2. The Secretary-General of UNCTAD is requested to make a preliminary report on his consultations to the intergovernmental group of experts and a full report on these consultations to the Board at the second part of its thirty-sixth session.

Intergovernmental group of experts

3. As agreed in paragraph 4 of Board decision 356 (XXXIV), an intergovernmental group of experts, with a detailed and specific mandate covering selected issues, might contribute to the elaboration of the programme for further promotion of trade and economic co-operation among countries having different systems, in particular East-South trade. The Secretary-General was requested to advise the Board at its thirty-fifth session on the composition and the terms of reference of such a group. In the light of the Secretary-General's oral report and the views expressed by Governments and groups of Governments during the second part of the thirty-fifth session,[7] the Board agreed on the following:

(i) The intergovernmental group of experts should be open-ended;

(ii) Within existing resources, the intergovernmental group of experts should meet in the fourth quarter of 1989. If decided by the intergovernmental group of experts, a resumed session might be scheduled before the second part of the thirty-sixth session of the Trade and Development Board;

(iii) The intergovernmental group of experts shall analyse and evaluate the existing and evolving trends and potential factors related to inter-systems trade, with a view to identifying the problems and constraints within inter-systems trade, as well as the potential areas and necessary conditions for further expansion of that trade including, inter alia, preference schemes, financing of inter-systems trade and economic co-operation including payment arrangements and joint ventures;

(iv) On the basis of this work, the intergovernmental group of experts shall elaborate elements of a draft programme for further promotion of trade and economic co-operation among countries having different systems, in particular East-South trade;

[5] On adopting this decision, the Board also decided that the "Outline of Group D countries' approach to the elaboration of a programme referred to in paragraph 105 (26) of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII", submitted by Bulgaria on behalf of Group D, should be annexed thereto.

[6] Note by the UNCTAD secretariat submitted at the thirty-third session of the Board.

[7] See the Report of the Board, part II, chap. III.

(v) The intergovernmental group of experts might also make recommendations to the Trade and Development Board as to the orientations of the research work of the secretariat. These recommendations may cover proposals for technical assistance activities and the treatment of specific issues which may also be included as elements of the programme;

(vi) The results of the work of the intergovernmental group of experts shall be reported to the Trade and Development Board at the second part of its thirty-sixth session.

Work of the UNCTAD secretariat

4. The improvements made by the secretariat in the quality of the documentation and statistical material and the investigation of specific areas in the annual report on this item as requested by the Board in its decision 356 (XXXIV) are noted. The secretariat should continue to make improvements to both its analytical and statistical work and, taking into account the views expressed during the current session of the Board, pay further attention to the comparability of statistics and of the breakdown of product coverage within inter-systems trade, in particular East-South trade.

5. The UNCTAD secretariat is also requested to continue to highlight the principal factors and prospects for inter-systems trade, in particular East-South trade in its annual report to the Board at the second part of its thirty-sixth session, taking into account views expressed during the current session of the Board.

6. The study on trade, technical and economic co-operation between the socialist countries of Eastern Europe and the least developed countries, requested by the Board in paragraph 7 of its decision 356 (XXXIV), should be completed and submitted as an input to the seventh session of the Intergovernmental Group on the Least Developed Countries, scheduled to be held in 1990 in preparation for the Second United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries.

Technical assistance

7. The UNCTAD secretariat should continue, on the basis of adequate resources and established priorities, to provide technical assistance to developing countries in order to promote and expand trade with socialist countries of Eastern Europe.

8. The dissemination of trade information, training skills and advisory services should constitute the basic elements of UNCTAD technical assistance activities in this field.

9. Co-operation between the UNCTAD secretariat, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations economic commissions and the International Trade Centre UNCTAD/GATT should continue and be strengthened.

10. The UNCTAD secretariat is requested to make the necessary arrangements with the United Nations Development Programme in order to secure adequate resources for technical assistance activities within inter-systems trade.

11. An assessment of the UNCTAD technical assistance programme for the promotion of trade among developing countries and the socialist countries of Eastern Europe, with a special focus on the views of Governments which have benefited from these activities, would be of great importance in making technical assistance more useful and cost-effective. The results of this assessment should, if possible, be made available to the intergovernmental group of experts.

12. The Secretary-General of UNCTAD is requested, therefore, to make the necessary arrangements for such an intergovernmental exercise.

17 March 1989

ANNEX

Outline of Group D countries' approach to the elaboration of a programme referred to in paragraph 105 (26) of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII, submitted by Bulgaria on behalf of the States members of Group D

Having agreed on the feasibility of elaborating a programme for the further promotion of trade and economic co-operation among countries having different systems, in particular East-South trade, the Board in pursuing the issue at the second part of its thirty-fifth session, should take into account, in addition to the provisions of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII, all the inputs on this subject made at the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth sessions of the Trade and Development Board.

1. In elaborating the modalities of preparation of the programme, the following considerations to be borne in mind:

The programme should be a guideline for UNCTAD activities in inter-systems trade;

Trade among countries having different economic and social systems is an integral part of world trade;

Relevant elements of Conference and General Assembly resolutions should be further implemented in the context of the Final Act of UNCTAD VII, without repeating them;

Secretary-General's consultations referred to in paragraph 105 (27) of the Final Act, should actively contribute to the process of preparation of the Programme.

2. Such a programme may include, inter alia:

Main orientations for the research work of the secretariat;

A programme for technical assistance activities;

Intergovernmental or ad hoc groups of experts or seminars on specific problems concerning inter-systems trade and particularly East-South trade.

3. As agreed in paragraph 4 of Trade and Development Board decision 356 (XXXIV), an intergovernmental group of experts should contribute to the elaboration of the programme. Accordingly, that group should be requested to elaborate a draft proposal for a programme for the different economic and social systems, in particular East-South trade. This draft proposal should be presented at the thirty-sixth session of the Trade and Development Board.

4. The UNCTAD secretariat should prepare further documents for consideration by the Group of Experts and the Trade and Development Board on the basis of the results of the present part of the thirty-fifth session.

5. Once the programme is adopted, the discussion on inter-systems trade might be taken up by the Trade and Development Board when appropriate.

369 (XXXV). Review of the calendar of meetings

The Trade and Development Board

1. Approves the calendar of meetings for the remainder of 1989;[8]

2. Takes note of the draft calendar for 1990 and the tentative calendar for 1991[9] as indicative for planning purposes.

3. Also requests the Secretary-General of UNCTAD, in his preparations for the Second United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries in 1990, to give appropriate attention to sustainable development;

4. Further requests the Secretary-General of UNCTAD to develop proposals for technical assistance, in co-operation with the United Nations Development Programme and other relevant agencies, for financing by donors, and invites them to provide additional financing for this purpose;

5. Underlines that all activities referred to above should be carried out within the mandates and programmes of the organization and its subsidiary bodies, and that the general direction and priorities as set down by intergovernmental bodies in UNCTAD should be maintained.
